

Sarah Day

5th Grade

Sarah Day was born in Georgetown, Texas and moved to Austin, Texas when she was very young.

Ms. Day graduated from the University of North Texas (UNT) with a Bachelor of Arts degree in English and creative writing, and a minor in media arts. She was involved in NTTV (North Texas Television), UNT's student television station, and the university's Short Film Club. She published multiple pieces in UNT's literary magazine, the North Texas Review.

In 2007 she was adopted by her late mother Alice Day, a former English teacher whose defense of racial justice and work in youth alcohol and drug prevention programs led to her winning Longview's Unity Award in 2008. Ms. Day hopes to carry on Alice's legacy of love and compassion for all youth.

Ms. Day loves video games, movies, anime, and books of all kinds. In her free time she loves to travel, camp, and hike.
