

Angela Dormiani, M.A., NBCT

High School History

Angela Dormiani was born and reared in central Oklahoma, and received a Bachelor of Arts degree in history from Rockhurst University in Kansas City, MO, where she attended on a tennis scholarship. She majored in history, minored in political science, and graduated cum laude from the college's honors program. Ms. Dormiani later decided to teach secondary history and received an alternative teaching certificate in 2001.

Ms. Dormiani has taught social studies at ASTEC since 2002 at the middle school and high school sites. As a social studies teacher, Ms. Dormiani has had the opportunity to travel around the world for various professional development, including China, South Korea, Japan, Hawaii, Barbados, and Boston. She spent a month studying American Revolution and constitutional history at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C., as part of the James Madison Fellowship Memorial Fund she received to finish her master's degree. Ms. Dormiani completed her Master of Arts in History from the University of Central Oklahoma in May 2011.

As a graduate student, while teaching at ASTEC, Ms. Dormiani wrote and presented several historical research papers at state and national social sciences, humanities, and history conferences around the country. She has been an AP reader for the AP European History exam for College Board, and Ms. Dormiani achieved National Board Teacher Certification in Young Adult Social Studies in 2017. She has served as the junior class sponsor and co-sponsors in the planning of the junior/senior prom each year. ""

In her free time, Ms. Dormiani loves to travel with her husband, read, play tennis, and hang out with her sweet Siberian Husky.
